

ABSTRACT

A microfluidic device is provided that can include at least one trap for receiving displaceable adhesion material displaced during a closing operation of a deformable valve. The trap can be formed as a recess or chamber in a substrate of the microfluidic device. A system including a deformer for opening such a valve is also provided as are methods of opening such a valve.